Notice to Healthcare Provider:

Out of an abundance of caution, we want to advise all healthcare providers that the individual you are caring for works at a senior living community where the risk of contagion and the spread of COVID-19 is particularly high.

This individual is an employee at a Holiday Retirement senior living community.

Holiday Retirement is actively engaged in efforts to prevent and prepare for the impact of COVID-19. Each of our communities provides living, dining, and communal areas for more than 100 seniors and elderly adults, a population that is at high risk for COVID-19.

Our communities are not healthcare facilities. We are unable to monitor symptoms when an individual who has received medical care re-enters one of our communities. The health, safety and well-being of our residents and employees are our top priority. Please understand the risks associated with our communities' residents and employees when caring for an employee who will be treated or released back into one of our communities. If the employee is exhibiting acute respiratory illness, including suspected or confirmed COVID-19, please inform them to contact the General Manager listed below before they consider re-entering a location.

If the associate will need time off, please contact FMLA Source at 877-462-3652 to request the necessary paperwork and protect their position.
