THE DIY-ERS

Generous, industrious, and proudly self-sufficient, these neighbors feel most alive with sawdust in their hair, paint on their sleeves, or a bit of grease under their fingernails. Build it, fix it, make it like new!

THE PHILANTHROPISTS

Every community has people moved to volunteer, and Holiday is no exception! From canned food drives and fundraising to lending a hand at the animal shelter, these people simply love to help others.

THE ALL-STARS

They run the college hoops bracket. Organize the football viewing party. And they always have the correct sports trivia answers. They're our sports lovers, and they're ready to welcome you to the team!

THE FOODIES

Most people eat to live. These folks live to eat! But the foodie life isn't JUST about dining. This group can readily find a cooking show, celebrity chef, recipe website, cookbook, or food magazine to bond over too.

THE SOCIAL BUTTERFLIES

These extra-friendly folks are often the life of the community, ready to offer advice, introductions and a neighborly cup of sugar. Charming and knowledgeable, they're the connectors that bring new friends together.

THE HOMEBODIES

These folks take great pleasure in cozying up in their apartments (sometimes for days!), with no fear of missing out on the action. Homebodies know they are just as much a part of their Holiday community as everyone else.
