

Here's to the Heroes!

There is so much in the news about the many people on the front lines, putting themselves in danger by helping those in need. And their appreciation and recognition is well deserved.

But we here at Golden Oaks have our heroes - those who do so much to care for the many residents; working very hard for long hours, doing so much more than their jobs entailed in the past; knowing that just by being here they are running a risk of contracting the virus. And going way beyond that extra mile to see that needs are met.

You don't hear them complain; they present a kind word or an encouraging smile as they go about their day. One can only wonder at the fullness of character and the strength and resolve to cope with this situation.

I, for many, cannot say enough to express appreciation for all that they do, and to give a most sincere and heartfelt thank you.
